2008 Premier Award Call For Submissions

We’ve had a Pyro, a Cat and an Arcade. What’s next? Surprise us.

Have you developed courseware designed to enhance engineering education? We want to see it! The Engineering Pathway digital library is proud to host the Premier Award for Excellence in Engineering Education Courseware, an annual international competition to recognize high-quality, non-commercial courseware designed to enhance engineering education.

To view past winners, find eligibility and submission information and learn how your courseware could become the Premier Courseware of 2008, visit Engineering Pathway at www.engineeringpathway.com/premier/.

Engineering Pathway is a portal to high-quality teaching and learning resources in applied science and math, engineering, computer science/information technology and engineering technology. Our passion is engineering and our goal is to provide resources that will help teachers, parents, faculty and practicing engineers to inspire more of today's students to follow an engineering path as their way to understand and improve our world. Discover your path at Engineering Pathway.
